New Colored Dress Fabrics For Easter Gowns.

WE are displaying the New Colored Dress Fabrics for Spring of 1909 in their entirety. The variety is comprehensive, including foreign and domestic goods, many of which are exclusive, having been manufactured expressly for us. Among the Paris novelties are duplicates in designs, weaves and colors of those now being shown in Paris for the spring season.

As predicted, satin-finished materials have first choice, and each day adds something new in the way of colorings as well as weaves. One very handsome cloth that is meeting with unusual success is the New Satin Lambelle Cashmere, an American production. And in our judgment it is one of the best materials that have yet been produced for the new repertoire style. It has the perfect sheen of an all-silk satin, but is far superior in draping qualities, and this qualification is absolutely necessary for the perfect production of the repertoire gown.

White and Cream Serges.

As stated heretofore, cream and white will continue in high favor, and serge, which has such a strong hold on the makers of fashion, will be much worn. As the season progresses more and more of the new dress models are being constructed of this popular weave. There is so much in the favor of serge that commends it to the wearer. It presses well, does not soil readily, and maintains its shape after long wear.

We are showing a large line in the various weaves, including a broad assortment of American manufacture, which because of its peculiar finish and great dust-resisting qualities finds greater favor when compared with the imported goods.

Prices range from 50c to $2.50 the yard and include—

36-inch Cream Serge, medium twill, 50c and 65c a yard.	45-inch Cream Serge, fine twill, $1.25 a yard.
43-inch Cream Serge, medium twill, 75c a yard.	42-inch Cream Serge, cord twill, $1.25 a yard.
45-inch Cream Serge, medium twill, $1.00 a yard.	55-inch Cream Serge, medium twill, $1.75 a yard.
45-inch Cream Serge, chevron stripe, $1.00 a yard.	50-inch French Serge, medium twill, $2.00 a yard.
45-inch Cream Serge, heavy twill, $1.25 a yard.	54-inch French Serge, heavy twill, $2.50 a yard.
54-inch Cream Serge, medium twill, $1.25 a yard.	54-inch Novelty Stripe Serge, $2.00 a yard.

New Black Dress Fabrics For Easter Gowns.

MANUFACTURERS have done their best to add new beauty to the weaves selected for this season's favorites. The soft, sheer, graceful fabrics lead in popularity.

Special attention is called to a very broad assortment now displayed from the leading manufacturers, including Priestley and Lupin, of which we show a very attractive assortment. Their productions are pre-eminently first in quality, weave, dye, and finish.

Priestley's New Black Fabrics Include:

Ottoman Stripes, $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50 a yard.	Chiffon Panama, $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50 a yard.

RULES OF WAR ARE LAID DOWN

State Department Makes Public Text of Agreement.

List of Articles Free from Seizure and Contraband Described—Question of Blockade.

The State Department made public yesterday the text of an agreement in the form of a convention negotiated by representatives of the ten leading maritime powers of the world at a conference in London, to determine the rules to be applied in controversies growing out of war which were not clearly covered by international laws or treaties.

The conference was called by Great Britain, and grew out of the action of The Hague conference in agreeing to the appointment of a prize court of fifteen before which questions involving the rights of neutrals, etc., could be brought by either belligerents or neutral nations in connection with blockades and seizure of vessels. The treaties providing for the appointment of this prize court have not received the formal ratification of all the nations which subscribed to them. Articles to be absolutely free from seizure and under no circumstances to be considered contraband of war are raw cotton, raw wool, silk, jute, flax, hemp, and other raw materials of textile industries, as well as fabrics woven therefrom; oleaginous nuts and seeds; copra, India rubber, resins, gums, hops, raw hides, horns, bone, and ivory; natural and artificial fertilizers; compounds of nitrate and phosphate susceptible of use in agriculture; ores, earths, clays, lime, chalk, stone, china-ware and glassware, soaps, paints, varnish, soap ash, caustic soda, sulphate of soda, ammoniac, machinery used in agriculture, and many other articles which, by their nature, would not be of value in warfare.

Absolutely contraband articles consist of arms and powder of every description, military equipment of every kind and character; saddle, draft, and pack horses. The list of additional contraband articles is made up of food supplies, fodder, and grain, gold and silver, and fying machines, and articles which might possibly be used as munitions of war.

Assistant Secretary of State Huntington Wilson, who made known the contents of the treaty, called attention to the fact that the absolutely free list comprises articles of which the United States alone exports and imports to the extent of approximately $400,000,000 per annum. The conditional list comprises articles of which this country exports and imports to the extent of $300,000,000.

The ten maritime nations which signed the convention agree that blockades shall be confined to the ports and coasts before which the belligerent is engaged in hostilities, and that a blockade to be binding must be effective. The Anglo-American doctrine of notice of blockade was adopted over the continental doctrine.

A compromise was reached in the matter of what constitutes a continuous voyage.

An important innovation of the convention provides that a neutral vessel seized by the belligerents must be destroyed by the captors, but must be conducted into the proper port in order that the validity of the capture may be decided by a prize court. This article is modified somewhat by an article which provides that neutral vessels captured by a belligerent vessel may be destroyed if the observance of article 4 is deemed to jeopardize the safety of the war vessel or the success of the operations in which the latter was actually engaged.

Assistant Secretary Wilson, in making the convention public, said that the State Department was gratified at the rules adopted by the conference, and that it also the general board of the navy had examined the convention and approved all the rules laid down.

SCIENTISTS PREACH

Dr. Wiley and Others Warn of Dangers of Alcohol.

ARGUMENTS FOR PROHIBITION

Physicians Who Attended Session of American Society for Study of Narcotics Address Congregation at Waugh and Douglas Memorial Chapel—Pathetic Cases Cited.

Temperance in all its scientific phases was discussed in Washington churches yesterday by physicians who for years have studied the question.

The moral of temperance was not touched upon by the speakers, but their word pictures of the havoc wrought on the human system were intended as strong arguments for the cause of prohibition.

In the morning addresses were made before the congregation of Waugh Methodist Episcopal Church by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, government chemist; Dr. T. D. Crothers, of Hartford, Conn., superintendent of Walnut Lodge Hospital, and Dr. L. D. Mason, of Brooklyn, N. Y., vice president of the American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Other Drug Narcotics. Dr. C. H. Benton of Chester, W. Va., superintendent of Sterling-Whitman Sanatorium, spoke at Douglas Memorial Chapel.

"Scientific facts concerning alcohol, how made, what form, and uses" was the subject of Dr. Wiley's address. He described the ingredients used in the manufacture of alcohol, and the properties of starch, sugar, and cellulose. The process of fermentation was illustrated by the chemist by telling of the manufacture of yeast abroad. He said every housewife who raises bread with yeast produces alcohol and carbonic acid in equal quantities. It is these substances, he said, in the form of gas, which expand under the heat of baking, and make the bread light.

Tells of Distillation.

The manner in which alcohol is recovered from the fermented mash, and the process of distillation was described by Dr. Wiley. He told of the percentages of alcohol in various beverages. In beer, he said, there is from 3 to 5 per cent alcohol; in cider from 2 to 6 per cent. In wine from 7 to 15 per cent, and in whisky, brandy, and rum, an average of from 45 to 55 per cent of alcohol.

The industrial uses of alcohol were gone into by the speaker. He told of the manufacture of ether and smokeless powder, containing alcohol, and how denatured alcohol is made.

"Alcohol as a food product is only a partial food product," said Dr. Wiley. "It furnishes heat and energy only, and is not capable of building up tissues or repairing waste. The toxic effects, when taken in excess, cause the tissues to harden and result in an accelerating effect in bringing on age and decrepitude."

"Old age is a precipitation of the protoplasm of the cells, which is accelerated by alcohol used in excess of the amount that can be oxidized. The maximum of alcohol that man's system is capable of oxidizing is not more than two or three ounces a day," Dr. Wiley said.

Dr. Crothers took as his subject "The future of the alcoholic problem," and made the startling statement that should the use of intoxicants continue to spread in recent years, without some check, alcohol would make of the nation a mass of that high percentage of citizens who are feeble, anemic, weak, and degenerate creatures, possessing inferior mental qualities and moral stamina. Dr. Crothers corroborated many of the statements of Dr. Wiley as to the effect of alcohol on the human system, and gave figures showing the percentage of drinkers ruined by the effects of alcoholism.

"The social temperance is celebrated" was the subject chosen by Dr. Mason. He told the need of legislation to restrain inebriates and gave an outline of the kind of laws used in many of the States relating to alcoholism.

Pathetic Cases Cited.

Striking and pathetic instances of homes and lives wrecked by alcoholism were given by the speaker. He spoke of alcoholism as the chief cause of the incarceration of many persons in the insane asylums. After touching upon what has been done by State legislatures and what remains to be done by them for the welfare of these unfortunate, Dr. Mason told of the effect of the narcotic on the mentality of man.

The process of disintegration of the brain cells, weakening of the nerve powers, and destruction of tissues were described by Dr. Mason.

At Douglas Memorial Church Dr. Benton told of the necessity of temperance not only as regards the consumption of alcohol, but with relation to foodstuffs. He said overfeeding tends to make the system fertile or in a ready state to consume alcohol.

Dr. Benton said in part: "Practical temperance is not an illusion, although from a standpoint of general demonstration it would be regarded only as an ideal condition, nevertheless, an ideal condition which is not only attainable, but easily so, but by hard, diligent persistence. This you will observe, causes a large number of physical nervousness, social conditions in which we do not always observe the necessary moderation, or while observing the strictness of one direction, or one particular habit, or ignorance, or desire, all of which express a condition of temperance, and these excesses are many times confined to the necessary physical processes and social customs upon which our physical existence is dependent."

"This continual habit of overfeeding is the result of ignorance, and comes from a desire to please the taste, combined with ignorance, but from whatever source or cause it represents, a gross intemperance, and one which provokes a great number and a greater range of seemingly minor physiological disturbances and pathological entities. These develop and blossom into all conditions and degrees of unhealth and uncomfortable situations, only to be relieved by the use of the cathartic or the laxative for the production of dormant pathological lesions, or inherent degenerations. Through its restraining action it is the cause of the acquired degenerations from the destruction of the normal defense line, reducing the physical resistance to such a lowered degree that the physical economy becomes ready prey to any infectious disease."

"It is our province, and should be our privilege, not only personally to pursue the path of the strictest practical temperance, and by practice and precept establish a precedent worthy of imitation, and we should also carefully teach the dangers of auto-intoxication from overindulgence of food, as of auto-intoxication from overindulgence of alcohol, and on the other, we should instruct each person who may apply to use for relief as to the exciting cause of such maladies, and how, if possible, to avoid these causes, and also how to attain and then maintain the highest degree of physical resistance, and this always begins with abstinence; every one should be instructed in the selection of food, the preparation of food, and above all, they should be instructed with the most vital of all the processes, mastication, thorough and complete."

TELLS OF CHRIST'S DIVINITY.

Rev. Dr. Russell Conducts Special Series of Lectures.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the League of the Good Shepherd last night, where Rev. Dr. William T. Russell is giving a series of lectures on the divinity of Christ. Many Catholics and non-Catholics are attending these meetings, and the membership of the league is increasing.

In order to ascertain the special religious difficulties of his hearers, Dr. Russell has introduced a "question box," in which slips of paper, asking any sincere and pertinent question, may be placed. The questions are answered at the following meeting. Congregational singing and special selections by the sanctuary choir form one of the attractive features of the Sunday night meetings.

SEES HAND OF GOD IN MONEY PANICS

Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe Preaches Strong Sermon.

RETRIBUTIVE LAW EXPOUNDED

Holds Divine Intervention Causes Great Disasters—Subject of Discourse Is "God's Battle-Ax"—Points Out the Almighty Uses Forces of Evil to Bring About Ultimate Good.

"Financial panics are not the result of Wall street cabals, nor are national disasters, great losses of life, defeats of parties, famines, and floods the result of the machinations of men. They are evidences of the retributive law of God and incidents of the divine chastening process."

"God's battle-ax" was the subject of Dr. Wallace Radcliffe's sermon last night in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. He chose for his text the words prophesying the fall of Jerusalem before the pagan hordes of Nebuchadnezzar: "Behold, I will bring my word upon this city for evil and not for good."

Speaking of the responsibilities of governments and business bodies, Dr. Radcliffe said:

"We sometimes try to excuse governments from the moral law. We palliate in business life what we would not tolerate in private life. The men who administer this nation from their places in this city are accountable as strictly as a body as they are individually. If a government offends it will suffer."

"There is no such thing as a small sin, either in private or in organized life. If an act is unworthy and contrary to the teaching of Jesus, it brings down the divine wrath. The fact that governments believe in capital punishment is an evidence of that principle. Just as God brought his battle-ax down on the erring city of Jerusalem, so civil authorities sometimes find it necessary to destroy, for the ultimate good of the community."

"Modern sentiment would relegate the battle-ax to the museum, and yet Jehovah himself is a God of warfare. The law of retribution He imposes is immutable. But in His administration He combines grace with punishment. All things in His hands shape themselves to His purpose. Every human emotion, every circumstance of daily life, every business crisis, every domestic event has its significance in the great process. He destroyed Jerusalem by the hand of a pagan."

Bad Ministers to Good.

"Against his chosen people he directed his battle-ax in the hand of the ruler of Babylon, whose very existence was an insult to God. He uses the bad to minister to the good, and then punishes the bad for the harm it has done to the good. He smote Jerusalem for breaking his covenant, and so he smites any other Jerusalem that turns its back on the law of moral good, or that makes its dwelling in the atmosphere of its own conceit."

"Woven into the very fabric of God's retribution, however, we find abundant tokens of His reluctance to punish until all other means of reform have failed. He is long suffering, slow to anger, quick to forgive. He gave numerous light taps of His battle-ax to Jerusalem before He delivered the final blow. He does not mean destruction unless we mean it. He destroys only that which is useless and antagonistic. That is what He means when He inflicts sorrow, and other tribulations that are often inexplicable."

Reform Follows Discipline.

"Reformation and regeneration follow reluctant chastisement in God's scheme. It was a new Jerusalem that was evolved from those centuries of discipline. Power, pleasure, profit, or pride may be slain; the earthly man may be defeated, dying, honored, dead. But God breathes new life into the prostrate form, and it shall live."

The choir, composed of Mrs. W. H. Shir-Cliff, Miss Pauline Whitaker, John H. Nolan, and Joseph F. Mathieu, sang the anthems "God Be Merciful Unto Us and Bless Us" and "Lord Most Holy, Lord Most Mighty."

RESURRECTION IS EXPLAINED.

Dr. W. W. Baker Addresses the Theosophical Society.

"The atonement and resurrection" was the subject discussed by Dr. W. W. Baker yesterday morning before the Capital City Branch of the Theosophical Society. "The doctrine of the atonement," said Dr. Baker, "is to be interpreted as an inspiration to righteousness, and not a legal substitution of Christ for man. Legal phrases have intruded and materialized the once spiritual idea, and a scheme of redemption has been outlined. In the light of a spiritual unfoldment the mystery of the atonement may be understood as lying within the universal law of sacrifice, which is at the root of success in spiritual as well as material things."
